

A Welted Shoe.

A shoe that isn't welted should be welted. Do you catch our meaning? If the shoe isn't welted, if you have it half-soled, it must be nailed on, which means a short lived half sole and long lived injuries to your feet. Let us tell you a trade secret.

Welted shoes retailed at the same price as unwelted ones, but they cost more to make. Being wise you will find these remarks sufficient. Let us show you the latest comfortable shoes.

and every one who goes in there is pleased.

So it is with hundreds who drop in at 26 of the choice pieces for stew and pot roasts that we have decided to sell quick at a price never heard of before for the advocate pasturing sheep on our beautiful park. Open evenings.

Details of the Accident by Which Joseph W. Allen Lost His Life.

For the past thirty days Joseph W. Allen, aged 72, a feeble bodied man, together with his son, has been at work taking off a board or two at a time from the old building that Editor Peak was ordered to move off of the Globe company's property, carrying them across the river to the bulwark is putting up there, then returning for more. The floor of his old press room having been well taken up a piece of an old door was laid down to stand on while the press was being taken out. On this a wheel of no great weight was standing on its rim, yesterday afternoon, when the old man spoke to his son, and asking him if it was not best to get a wagon for the wheel.

The son says he turned around and saw his father and the wheel going over into the cellar the wheel running on Mr Allen's face and neck. It was seen that he was injured badly. Physicians were called and treated him until his death, about one hour and a half later. He was apparently unconscious during the time. Mr Allen was a resident of New Haven for a number of years. He returned here four years since. He still is believed that of his medical examiner, tells us that the jaw was broken and the face cut badly. He thinks that Mr Allen died from the fall attending the accident. The funeral will take place from his son's residence on Hawley street at 2 o'clock to-morrow af-noon.

The warden and board of burgesses will meet to-night. It is hoped that something definite will be done, soon, in the way of improvements on sidewalks. We are now
